- Helping companies better align their approach to political influence with their commitments to values, purpose, sustainability & stakeholders
- Making CPR the norm to reduce risk, accelerate shared solutions & strengthen trust in civic institutions

Why CPR May Be Relevant for You Now

A person is walking a tightrope over a deep chasm. The person is in the center of the frame, balancing on a thin wire. The background is a dark, rocky cliff face on the right and a clear sky on the left. The overall tone is serious and cautionary.

Companies Face New Questions & New Pressures

98% say the political environment is challenging

...due to:

1. Extremism/polarization among policy makers;
2. Anti corporate rhetoric and actions from policy makers;
3. Weakening of trust in government;
4. Sharply divergent state policies.

...and 71% believe things will be at least as bad or worse two years from now.

Confidence in Institutions Hits a New Low

Average Confidence in Major U.S. Institutions, 1979-2022

Figures are the average percentage of U.S. adults who have a great deal or quite a lot of confidence across institutions asked consistently by Gallup.

The average includes only those asked consistently by Gallup since 1979 or 1993 (when the list of institutions was expanded). The institutions asked consistently since 1979 are the church/organized religion, the military, the Supreme Court, banks, public schools, newspapers, Congress, organized labor and big business. In 1993 the list of institutions was expanded to include television news, the presidency, the police, the medical system and the criminal justice system.

Expectations of Business Keep Rising

A silhouette of a person stands in the center, looking out a large window at a city skyline. The person is carrying a bag. The window is divided into a grid of panes. The city skyline is visible through the window, with various buildings and a cloudy sky. The overall tone is dark and moody.

05

Fake news concerns are at an all-time high

Concerns over fake news or false information being used as a weapon is now at an all-time high of 76%.

06

There is a collapse of Trust in democracies

In many of the democracies studied, institutions are trusted by less than half of their people, including only 46 pts in Germany, 45 pts in Spain, 44 pts in the UK and 43 pts in the U.S. Moreover, no developed countries believe their families and self will be better off in 5 years time.

Societal fears on the rise

Without faith that our institutions will provide solutions or societal leadership, societal fears are becoming more acute. Most notably, 85% are worried about job loss and 75% worry about climate change.

Business needs to step up on societal issues

While business outscores government by 53 points on competency and 26 points on ethics, respondents believe business is not doing enough to address societal problems, including climate change (52%), economic inequality (49%), workforce reskilling (46%) and trustworthy information (42%).

Societal leadership is now a core function of business

When considering a job, 60% of employees want their CEO to speak out on controversial issues they care about and 80% of the general population want CEOs to be personally visible when discussing public policy with external stakeholders or work their company has done to benefit society. In particular, CEOs are expected to shape conversation and policy on jobs and the economy (76%), wage inequity (73%), technology and automation (74%) and global warming and climate change (68%).

Business must lead in breaking the cycle of distrust

Across every single issue, by a huge margin, people want more business engagement, not less. For example, on climate change, 52% say business is not doing enough, while only 9% say it is overstepping. The role and expectation for business has never been clearer, and business must recognize that its societal role is here to stay.

All data is based on general population sample unless otherwise noted.
